At more than 1,800 acres, Paul Douglas Forest Preserve fits right in with the other big forest preserves of northwest Cook County. Birders have been drawn to the area for decades, thanks to the large open grasslands and wetlands, complete with heron rookery, that provide ample breeding grounds for important birds.

This connector trail is fairly short and ends up at an opening under the powerlines and intersects with the Powerline Trail. Most trail books (including my favorite) suggest going straight toward the Trillium Trail and a clock-wise route around the Preserve. However, I would do a counter-clock route and turn right here and head toward the Pipeline Trail (by doing this you end with the best ...

The water activity,  $a_w$ , in a fish is defined as the ratio of the water vapour pressure in the flesh of the fish to the vapour pressure of pure water at the same temperature and pressure. It ranges between 0 and 1, and is a parameter that measures how available the water is in the flesh of the fish. Available water is necessary for the microbial and enzymatic reactions involved in spoilage.
